CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

J. A. M.

Enthusiasm is a wonderful thing, and when coupled with optimism often leads one into unknown and strange realms of fantasy. Between the halves of the Western Maryland game an alumnus rushed up to one of the cheer leaders and urged him to keep up that cheering, adding: "We'll win yet."

The spirit at the Western Maryland game was fine; Alumni and Student Body acted not as two distinct bodies but just as Sons of Loyola gathered together for a common purpose. We'll get there yet. The next thing needed is a social evening for both the "old and the new." Let them get acquainted.

The Card Party, to be held on the 27th, should be a huge success. It is for a cause close to your hearts, or should be. The latter clause is added in remembrance of the June Festival.

In due time notice will be posted for the Mission Bazaar at Notre Dame. The boys at Evergreen will turn missionaries for that day anyway.

We are reasonably certain that magazines and books are incapable of locomotion—even in the library.

The Greyhounds have been hard hit with injuries this year but barring new casualties, the entire pack should be on the field for the Navy game.

The rather belated social season shall be ushered in on November 28, with the Soph Dance, in the gym.

In taking the pulse of the classes on a school or even a class night, we found no response worthy to chart.

The Seniors are to be guests at the Alumni Smoker, to be held at Evergreen, on the night of November 15. Those Seniors, who have never smoked, will smoke and those who do will smoke for several weeks afterwards.

ALUMNI SMOKER TO BE HELD AT LOYOLA

Senior Class Invited As Guests Of Evening

Old grads and young will take possession of Evergreen this evening at 8:15 o'clock to enjoy the first get-together and Smoker of the year, prepared for them by the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association.

Mr. Albert Schlstedt, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, has arranged a very attractive program.

Mr. Edward G. Parlett, black-faced comedian, cartoonist and singer, will head the program with a new assortment of songs and jokes. Mr. Joe Tipman will be here once more with "his gang." The fight fans will witness some interesting boxing stunts when the ring is roped off for Al Martin and Young Sammy Langford, two clever boys now very popular in boxing circles.

Mr. Tipman has arranged too, for bouts between Eddie Campbell and Joe Smith, Young Joe Tipman and Fatty Arbuckle, and several others to be announced this evening.

Mr. Charles Lerch, President of the Alumni Association, will take advantage of this occasion to announce to the members of the Association a number of proposals drawn up recently by the Executive Committee. The nature and purpose of these proposals will be explained this evening, but discussion of them will be deferred to the regular semi-

SOPH DANCE ANNOUNCED FOR THANKSGIVING EVE

William E. Carr, chairman of the Executive Committee, has officially announced the plans for the Sophomore Frolique. He reports the entire committee is expending every effort to make the initial dance of 1928-29 season an affair equal to the best Loyola has ever sponsored.

It is important to remember that this dance is an invitation affair and one will be required, in conjunction with the price of admission, to gain access to the gym.

The Time—November 28, 9 P. M.
The Place—Loyola College Gym.
The Girl—That's your affair.
The Investment—$2.00.

T. Worth Murphy's Orchestra will furnish the music, with T. Worth as the chief attraction of the bandstand. Turkey Day will furnish the motif for the decorations.

YELL CONTEST WON BY MARK O. SHRIVER

Extension Of Time Brings Results

The extension of the College Yell Contest has produced a winner. The "hidden genius," mentioned in the last publication, has not been hiding his talents in some dark corner of the Science Building, and we are just as sorry to admit as we are happy to announce that the choice of the Judges falls not upon a member of the present student body but upon a very distinguished and spirited Loyola Alumnus, Mr. Mark O. Shriver.

The interest taken by Mr. Shriver in this contest is worthy of note, commendation and recommendation. He was the first to answer the call for contributions and when the Judges decided against him in their first vote, why, Mr. Shriver sat right down and penned another yell which the Judges would have to accept. They did. Here it is:

Ell Ell Ell Ell Ell
Oh Oh Oh Oh Oh
Why Why Why Why Why
Oh Oh Oh Oh Oh
Ell Ell Ell Ell Ell
Eh Eh Eh Eh Eh
Loyola Loyola Loyola
Rahhhhhhhhhhhhhhh

Mr. Shriver's idea is to rival the "Four N Yell" of Navy with his "Five Ell" of Loyola and has suggested that Mr. "Ike" George could show us just how effectively this yell can be "put across."

Generosity is usually the running-mate of enthusiasm. In submitting his winning Yell Mr. Shriver writes: "My offer still holds good. If I win the ten berries give them to the Athletic Association. They need the money more than I do."

The Greyhound congratulates Mr. Shriver and in the name of the Athletic Association wishes to thank him for his generous gift.

SENIORS TO HOLD CLASS NIGHT AT EVERGREEN

The Senior Class is holding a Class Night, at Evergreen, on Sunday, November 18.

It was found impossible to hold a class meeting at a time satisfactory to everyone, because of the varied class schedules and so they are combining pleasure with business and hope to settle their weighty problems over sandwiches and coffee.

This is the first of the class gatherings to be held this year.

CARD PARTY IN GYM ON NOVEMBER 27

Many Valuable Gifts and Door Prizes

On Tuesday evening, November twenty-seventh, a card party will be held in the gymnasium for the benefit of Loyola College. Card players of all tastes will find some game to interest them as there shall be tables of Bridge, "Five Hundred" and Bingo. Many valuable prizes are to be given to the players and door prizes consisting of $25 in gold, and a ton of coal will be distributed. Another feature is a "surprise gift," the nature of which will be announced at the party.

Many of the students and friends of Loyola recall with pleasure the success of the card party held for the benefit of the college last year. They will recall the numerous and beautiful gifts from Loyola friends both in Baltimore and outside the city. This year Father Love expects to have even more prizes.

Last year there were more than six hundred and fifty friends and supporters of Loyola who could testify to having spent a very pleasant evening at Evergreen. On November twenty-seventh, we hope to double last year's attendance figures. You and your friends can help to do it. Will you?

Oh yes! Transportation from the terminus of car number eleven to the gymnasium will be provided—and the card playing will start promptly at eight-thirty.

FORD SEDAN TO BE RAFFLED AT CARD PARTY FOR A. A.

On the night of Tuesday, November 27, a raffle of a 1928 Ford Sedan will be held in the Gym after the Card Party. Since the raffle is being run for the benefit of the Athletic Association the student body and Alumni alike are asked to get behind it and push it over the wide chalk line for a telling score.

Tickets have been distributed among all the classes. Which class is going to come out on top? Of course, every student will dispose of at least one book. Additional books can be obtained from the Dean of Discipline.

This is a grand opportunity to show the Greyhounds that Loyola is behind them to a man. And lest we forget—those new Ford's are neat, reliable and speedy, and there is lots of room alongside the Science Building during school hours.

Armistice Day

Ten years is a long time in the average person's life, but the memory of that eventful day ten years ago is still very fresh in the minds of most of us. It seems like just yesterday when the joyous sound of pealing bells and the deep throated cheers of the whistles announced to a tired, anxious, war-worn world that the great struggle, which had lasted four long years, was at last over. It seems like just yesterday when the whole world stopped whatever it was doing and put on its holiday garb, when every individual left his task and, seizing anything and everything that could be made use of to express his joy, forgetting the long years of straining, of economizing, and of grief, proceeded to manifest his gratitude that the ordeal was at an end. We shall never forget the exuberant joy of the multitudes, as they crowded to the churches or paraded the streets, unable to restrain their long-pent-up emotions.

That was the memorable day of November 11, 1918, on which the armistice between the German and Allied powers was signed. But after that came the days of demobilization and reconstruction, of the Peace Conference at Versailles, when the real fruits of this terrible travail were reaped. The success of this great World Struggle cannot be measured in nations conquered, territory annexed, nor reparations paid. Judged by these standards, it is a miserable failure, a sterile sacrifice of lives and fortunes upon the altar of Mars. Its real fruit lies in the birth of an international consciousness in the common brotherhood of man. Just as the era from the fifteenth to the close of the nineteenth century has been known as the Period of Nationalism, so the era which marks the beginning of the twentieth century will be known as the Period of Internationalism. Not that the human race will ever attain to the Eutopian state where there will be no more wars, for, if Cain and Able when there were only four persons on the face of the whole earth could not get along without strife, it seems improbable that the millions who now inhabit this terrestrial globe will succeed any better than they. The World War marks the beginning of a time when nations will learn to sit down with one another at the table of arbitration and settle their minor differences like rational individuals. It marks the beginning of a realization on the part of all nations that the differences and demarcations between them of race, and of tongue are purely accidental differences, and that they are all at heart, men, sons of a common Father, and fellow pilgrims on a journey whose milestones do not consist in strife and conquests, but in the advancement of the welfare of man. An era is about to be born when each will recognize that he himself seems as different to the others, as they do to him. And in the genesis of such an international broadmindedness alone can we hope to find the true fruits of November 11, 1918.

Card Party

John Galsworthy, the noted English dramatist, once wrote, "I hate half-hearted friends. Loyalty comes before everything." How much of truth there is in those few words—and how applicable they are to us who so frequently boast that our motto is: "Loyalty to Loyola."

It is through little things that big things are accomplished. Coming out to Evergreen on the evening of November 27 is a little thing for most of us to do. Yet, if all who read these words will do that "little thing," support the card party to be held for the benefit of the college, a great deal can be accomplished.

Let's make our loyalty more than an idle boast. Let's translate it into terms of action. Let's begin now—and begin by supporting the card part on the twenty-seventh of November.

The Greyhound expresses to Francis Childress the heart-felt sympathy of the Student Body on the recent death of his sister.

Loyalty

"Go out there and show the boys you are with them, pulling for them heart and soul. Don't be content to sit and watch, but by your cheering urge them on to harder endeavor; instill in them an added determination to gain that extra yard. Show your loyalty by your presence and your cheering."

The foregoing could be taken as an excerpt from any speech delivered at any one of the countless pep meetings that are the order of the day in colleges throughout the country.

Simple, straightforward language it is. Classic in its simplicity and coming from a heart actuated by a burning sense of loyalty and delivered with the boundless enthusiasm that spells success.

It is this strong sense of loyalty for one's school, developed in the days of our youth, that carries us on to greater things when school days are but a memory, and when that burning fire of ambition glows red but ever dimmer in the cold twilight of our life, when we are content to be warmed by the fireside of our memory as we recall our college days, and live again that precious period of our young manhood which stands out as the great sparkling stone in the chain of our life's efforts.

This general view on the subject of loyalty may be localized and applied to our own life as we live it at Loyola. To this end our pep meetings have been held. We have heard the heartfelt speeches and have enjoyed a surging enthusiasm with the hearing, and we have gone out and cheered with a fervor that bespeaks our loyalty.

We have cheered when the Greyhounds were successful in their valiant efforts and yelled words of encouragement when their backs were to the wall as they fought successfully to stem the tidal wave of a charging eleven. But all this was when success or near success smiled from her mighty throne.

When our team is being beaten in the turf, fighting valiantly but for a lost cause; when we shout words of encouragement to the defenders, though they be smothered under an avalanche of seemingly endless touchdowns, then it can be said that among the Loyola boys there is a real, heartfelt, deep-rooted enthusiasm and loyalty that a lost cause cannot dampen, and an avalanche of points cannot silence.

Discipline

The roll will be called in each class twelve minutes after the opening of the first period in the morning and immediately at the beginning of the other periods. Absence from roll call counts as absence from class. Absence from class even when excusable, affects the class standing; two (2) points will be deducted from the average for each absence. In the case of excusable absence opportunity will be given to make up fifty per cent of the absence. Students who are not present eighty-five per cent (85%) of the term will not receive any credit for the work of the term. Students who are absent from ten per cent (10%) of the classes held in the subject during the term will be debarred from the regular ex-

ALUMNI NOTES

The Alumni extend their hearty congratulations to Mr. Randall Barrett, who on the 29th of September, at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, Mount Washington, promised to love, honor and obey Miss Frances Winand. Mr. James J. Lacy, another member of the Alumni Association, was among the ushers.

While we are on the subject of congratulations, there are some due Mr. E. Gordon Gibson. No! He isn't married. However, he has been displaying his marvelous vocal ability over the radio and was lately presented with the medal award of the Maryland State Audition of the Atwater Kent Foundation for local eminence among amateur singers.

The members of the Alumni who who are in possession of automobiles have another opportunity to assist the card party to be held in the Loyola College gymnasium on Tuesday, November 27. Many cars will be needed in order to transport the crowds from the number eleven street cars to the gymnasium. We are certain that there will be the same generous response from our members as manifested last year on like occasion. Mail your "I'll be there" to Reverend Thomas J. Love, S. J., Evergreen.

At the recent meeting of the Class Secretaries there were a few proposals advanced for amending some articles of the constitution. These proposals are to be formally brought up at the next regular meeting and some interesting discussions should ensue.

We have not been able to locate the entire Class of '28, but here are some of the boys listed with their occupations. "Nat" Fercia, with the Fidelity & Deposit Company of Baltimore; Brindley Mills, with the Newark Shoe Company, Baltimore; Jim Kavanaugh and Adolph Wasilifsky are studying at Georgetown University; John Sweitzer is at St. Louis University; Tom Gray is selling Wea-Ever aluminum; Joe Welzant is a student at Maryland Law School.

amination in the subject and will be obliged to take the condition examination in the subject. Absence from the regular examinations unless antecedently excused by the Dean is to be regarded as a failure.

Gambling and card playing are strictly forbidden. Smoking is forbidden in all parts of the building above the basement and in front of the Science Building. In the library loud talking and eating of lunch are forbidden. The library should be used for reading and study and not as a recreation room. No signs may be posted without the approval of the Dean's office.

The use of the recreation room in the basement is permitted only before 9 A. M., during recess and after 2:30 P. M. At all other times the recreation room and the library are for reading or study.

FOOTBALL

WESTERN MARYLAND TROUNCES LOYOLA

Injuries On Loyola Team Felt Keenly

Loyola was handed the worst defeat in its history of College football when the Western Maryland College team, led by the human eel, Greasy Neal, swept the Greyhounds off their feet and romped at will and on ten different occasions planted the ball behind the goal line for touchdowns. Nine of the place-kicks were successful.

Greasy Neal left no doubt in the minds of the 8,000 people just why he is considered one of the best ball-toters in the East. The spectators were treated to an exhibition of line-bucking and broken-field running seldom seen by the football gentry of Baltimore. We saw a twisting, turning, plunging form, whose moderate gait invited tackling, but whose shiftiness defied it. Greasy is well named.

Ed Healy and Jimmy Kane played the best game for Loyola but their work, for the most part was ineffective. At no time did the Greyhounds threaten the goal of Western Maryland, while the Green Terrors crossed the Greyhound goal at will.

Although a player of excellent individual ability, the Western Maryland team, as a unit, contributed in a great measure to the outstanding performance of Neal.

The touchdowns were distributed among Long, Neal, Lawrence, Clark, Gomsak and Koschinski. Long and Neal making three apiece. Clark kicked 8 out of 9 in the tries for extra point and Long 1 out of 1.

The injuries that have kept a number of the regulars from the Greyhound line-up were felt considerably. The smoothness that is present in the functioning of a well-oiled machine was lacking for want of a few of the missing cogs.

GREYHOUNDS DROP THRILLER TO C. U.

Loyola Scores Twice In First Quarter

After a whirlwind start, in which two touchdowns were scored in the first quarter, it looked as though Catholic U had lost its footing on the hillside of Chance and was due for a tumble into the abysmal depths of defeat, but after a furious fight, during which the outcome was never a granted fact, the vanquished was found to be the aggressor of the first quarter.

The Greyhounds began the game in a fashion that sent the group of Loyola supporters into a state of frenzy. A pass from Kane to Alminde and a run by Monohan placed the ball within a yard of the Cardinal's goal line. C. U. held for four downs and kicked out of danger.

Loyola started another march from mid-field and on passes from Cannon to Alminde and from Watson to Curtis advanced the ball to the six-yard line, from where Monohan carried it over. He then kicked the extra point.

The Greyhounds were ripping and tearing and shortly after the first marker of the game, Cannon darted out of the melee with an intercepted pass to run 40 yards for another touchdown. Monohan missed the kick for extra point.

Late in the first quarter, with the Cardinals 65 yards from the goal line, Murphy tossed a 25-yard pass to Gerth, who ran the remaining 40 yards for the Washingtonians' score.

The ball spent most of the time in the air in the second quarter with both teams waiting for the inevitable break. It did not come in that period.

In the third quarter the break looked for in the first half occurred when Cannon fumbled on the 30-yard line and Zeno recovered to run the intervening distance for the second Cardinal touchdown. Champa was successful in his place-kick to put Catholic U a scant point ahead.

With both sides striving for a victory, Jerry Healy clinched the decision for C. U., when late in the final period he broke through tackle for the final touchdown of the day.

annual meeting which will be called next January. It is the wish of Mr. Lerch to give the members a few months to think over the proposals before voting on them.

The present Senior Class has been invited to attend the Smoker and Business Meeting. It is hoped that they will be there 100% and thus avail themselves of this opportunity to become acquainted with the members of the Association of which they will soon be an active part. To them too is given the chance of becoming familiar with the aim and purpose of the organization.

Father Love, S. J., newly appointed Faculty Representative, hopes to welcome a large gathering at Evergreen this evening. The Class Secretaries have been working hard to make Father Love's fond hopes a happy reality.

STUDENTS RETREAT DEFERRED UNTIL LIBRARY COMPLETED

Although the Students' Annual Retreat was scheduled for October 23 to 26, it was deemed advisable to postpone it until sometime next spring, due to the proximity of building operations to the Students' Chapel.

The spasmodic puff of the derick, the clanging of hammer on chisel and nail, the buzz of the motor-saw and other such evils that are included in the epithet "building" are not calculated to advance the spirit of recollection and serious introspection which are so essential in the work of a good retreat.

But there is an added reason for postponing the Retreat to a later date. With the completion of the Library, more suitable accommodations will be had for the Retreatants in the Assembly Hall of the new building; the Students' Chapel being too small to seat comfortably the growing numbers of the student body.

SPIRIT RUNS HIGH AS TIME FOR SOPH-FROSH STRUGGLE NEARS

The Greyhounds will be on the side-lines the Monday following the Thanksgiving holidays, when the Freshmen will face the Sophs in a determined endeavor to free themselves from the shackles of the Frosh rules.

The Freshie Caps are not as bright as they were last September 25, and those 43 shades of green ties are blending gradually into a solid green. The Frosh are tired of wearing them and everyone else is tired of gazing upon them—except the Sophs—and they are determined to make that annual Xmas present mean something for the Freshmen this year.

Of course the spirit between the two classes is quite high and with this spirit sustained the game promises to be a very colorful one. Already the teams have made arrangements for special "secret" practice —a prudent as well as a profitable preparation.

The Sophs claim that the Freshies are the underdogs, and the Freshmen have made no boasts, as becomes their humble station, but there may be a star from amongst their number unknown to the school and to Coach Comerford, who may decide the issue single handed.

It is difficult to say just what the outcome of the game will be, but this is certain, that the entire school expects to see the best Sophomore-Freshman game ever played at Evergreen.

Coach Tony Comerford is certainly having a rough time with his football squad. There seems to be an epidemic of housemaid's knees among the backs, but Monohan and Cannon keep plugging on.

"I'd rather have a Chesterfield!"

It is considered the height of bad form, they say, to carry your own sandwiches to a tea—or to pack your own blanket for the week-end—but luckily, no such outlandish conventions surround the smoking of your own cigarette.

"I'd rather have a Chesterfield," fortunately, is a phrase which not only remains "good cricketer" in polite circles—but at the same time brands the smoker as a person of rare discernment and excellent discrimination.

And small wonder, considering all the remark implies. Good taste, top quality, the rare sparkle of tobacco goodness—all these combine to justify the choice of that man who thus shows his keen judgment.

"I'd rather have a Chesterfield"—a neat line, that—the mark of a real connoisseur and the password of six million smokers.

ROBERT BELLARMINE DEBATING SOCIETY

At the last meeting it was unanimously decided that hereafter the name of the Sophomore Debating Society will be: "The Robert Bellarmine Debating Society." The choice of Blessed Robert is a happy and an auspicious one. Robert Francis Romulus Bellarmine was enrolled among the Blessed by Pius XI on the 13th of May, 1923. His fame rests on his ability as a controversial writer and speaker in the sixteenth century. A Cardinal and a theologian of high rank, he was pre-eminently a born and spirited debater. Louvain was his first field of fight, and Dr. Michael De Bay, commonly called Baius, was his first adversary. A mere stripling, only twenty-eight years old, he fought Baius, who was a learned man of fifty-seven and defeated him with ammunition taken from the armory of Baius. He later wrote and delivered his famous "Controversies" at Rome. His masterly refutation of the "English Solomon"—James I of England, was received with great applause by Europe. He was "The Debater" of his times. To sketch further his career would make a muster-roll far too long to be included in this space. The recently-published "Life and Work of Blessed Robert Francis Bellarmine by Fr. Brodrick, S. J.," is the best biography of the Blessed patron whom the Sophomores have so fittingly chosen—to whom they look for inspiration and guidance in all future forensic endeavors.

A timely question was discussed last week. It read: "Resolved, that the President of the United States should be directly elected by the people." Mr. Ring Lardner once asked why the Electoral College, so cosmopolitan in membership, never has a leading football team. Mr. Meyer, for the affirmative, gave the history of the Electoral College and showed how it fitted into our scheme of electing the President. Mr. Ruzicka, his colleague declared that the electoral college was a useless piece of machinery that should be scrapped and that the present method of giving the total electoral vote of a state to the candidate having the majority in the state is both unjust and unfair to the candidates and the people of the respective states. On the negative, Mr. Carr and Mr. Boone invoked usage and the common custom of the nation as their argument. They claimed the electoral college safeguards the small state and made an eloquent appeal for the retention of the Electoral College. The house, by vote, was in favor of directly electing the president by popular vote.

FRESHMAN DEBATING SOCIETY

The members of the George C. Jenkins Debating Society have manifested remarkable enthusiasm and interest in the questions thus far presented for debate and already a marked improvement has been shown over earlier efforts.

At a recent meeting the question for debate read: "Resolved that an A.B. course is a better preparation for life than that of a B.S." Messrs. Lyons and Wryzsek upheld the affirmative

REV. DEAN ANNOUNCES GRADES FOR 1929-1930

The passing mark for 1928-1929 is sixty per cent (60%). Mark of recommendation for higher studies—70%. September, 1929, and thereafter the passing mark will be sixty-five per cent (65%) and the following notice will appear clearly stamped on all certificates: "After September, 1929, mark required for recommendation to higher studies, seventy-five per cent (75%)."

No student working for a degree will be admitted to the regular Junior Philosophy courses until all conditions are removed. No regular student will be admitted to the Senior Philosophy courses with any condition.

The following students will be considered out of course and obliged to repeat the matter or the term either in regular class or under the direction of an approved tutor:

(A) Those who in the Mid-Year and Final Examinations receive below sixty per cent (60%) in three subjects or who are absent ten per cent (10%) of the classes in three major subjects:

Junior A. B. Philosophy, Physics, Elective.

Junior B. S. Philosophy, Physics, Elective.

Soph. A. B. Latin, English, Chemistry.

Soph. B. S. English, Physics, Mathematics.

Soph. Pre-M. Philosophy, Chemistry, Physics.

Soph. Pre-L. Philosophy, English, Elective.

Fresh. A. B. Latin, English, Mathematics.

Fresh. B. S. English, Chemistry, Mathematics.

Fresh. Pre-L. English, History, Elective.

side of the question; Messrs. Cooney and Farley, the negative. That the question drew with it the deep interest of the Society was clear from the fact that practically every member spoke from the floor when the question was opened to the House. On the merits of the speakers the negative side was victorious but the affirmative side won on the merits of the question.

The subject of the next debate reads: "Resolved that Latin and Greek should be abandoned in the modern scheme of Education."

Mr. C. Edward Storck, Jr., was chosen to fill the office of Secretary which had been vacated by Mr. Calvin Myers, who has withdrawn from Loyola to take up a commercial course.

ALUMNUS RENEWS OFFER OF AWARD TO FOOTBALL PLAYER ATTAINING HIGHEST AVERAGE

Loyola Is Promised Greyhound Pup As Mascot

The mail-man has done much to bring rays of sunshine into the hearts of Loyola men. In a letter to Mr. Comerford a generous alumnus has once again offered a prize of $25.00 to the football player attaining the highest average in his class-work for the scholastic of 1928-29.

Letter of glad tidings reads:

Mr. W. A. Comerford,
Athletic Director,
Loyola College,
City.

My Dear Comerford:

In accordance with our conversation I am pleased to renew my offer of a prize of $25.00 in gold to the member of the football squad attaining the highest average mark for all studies during the scholastic year of 1928-29.

I wish you would submit a list of the eligible men at the close of the football season to the Dean of the College, with the request that he certify to me the name of the winner, with the average mark attained, a reasonable length of time before the Commencement next June, so that I may have the money ready in time.

Yours for success,

AN ALUMNUS.

We may recall the fact that Nat Ferciot, who graduated last year, was twice winner of this prize during his four years at Loyola. Charles Marcel Massey won the gold-piece in his Sophomore year. The above letter is another striking example of the interest being manifested by the members of the alumni.

Loyola and the Greyhound are arousing interest in sections a "tolerable" distance from Charles Street Avenue and Cold Spring Lane. In another letter, Dr. Benton Sanders Pettus, of Athens, Alabama, informs us that he would be delighted to give the College, as mascot, a greyhound puppy of the same stock as the one he has but recently given Governor Smith of New York. Dr. Pettus' dogs are of the finest stock and are much sought after.

Here we take the opportunity of reminding the student body of the great work Father Cerrute, our Moderator of Athletics, is doing in regard to athletics. It is through his endeavors that the Loyola side-lines will at some future date be graced by a Greyhound in the flesh.

HERE AND THERE

Only 17 per cent of the students of U. of California within walking distance walk to classes. Some people must be different.

A few minutes of organized yelling just before taking the final exams is one of the student traditions at University of Texas.

ADOPTION OF MISSIONARY DISCUSSED BY SODALITY

At the meeting of the Sodality on November 8, Father Love addressed the Sodality on the subject of the Missions. He proposed that the idea suggested by the Rev. Fr. Provincial of the Maryland-New York Province, namely that the Sodality adopt either a Mission or a Missionary as the object of their special interest. Father Love stressed the need of prayer in the great work of saving souls and pointed out that no supernaturally good act can be accomplished without the aid of grace and that grace is obtained by prayer.

The Moderator proceeded to paint a vivid picture of the hardships undergone by those laboring in the Mission Fields. Many of the priests now laboring in the Philippine Islands are known personally to us and could use any assistance we might offer them, financial as well as spiritual. Father Love suggested one specific means of helping the Missions materially, to wit, the "Mite Box." The results of the Mite Box contributions in other Catholic Colleges and especially in Holy Cross College have been most gratifying and have done much to help spread the Kingdom of Christ in pagan lands. Loyola, lead on by the generous example of the Sodality, will be eager to co-operate in the noble work of assisting those who are sacrificing themselves for the missions.

COURSE OF LECTURES BEING GIVEN AT ST. IGNATIUS

Of special interest to Loyola Students is the recent announcement of the Sunday evening conferences begun at St. Ignatius' Church on November 4. The subjects treated are of vital importance to all Catholic laymen and should prove of special interest to all Catholic College men, since they have for their purpose to solve the theological, philosophical, economic and social problems which are most frequently brought up by non-Catholics for a satisfactory solution.

Rev. Thomas B. Chetwood, S. J., whose text book on "God and Creation" is used by the Sophomores in the Evidences of Religion class, has already opened the course, having taken "Faith" as his general topic.

Rev. Michael Clark, S. J., will speak on "Unity and Continuity of true Christianity and the Necessity of Holiness to the Church of Christ." Father Clark will preach on the Sunday nights of December.

Rev. Philip H. Burkett, S. J., and the Rev. Daniel J. Quinn, S. J., of St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, will continue the course for January; Rev. John F. Duston, S. J., during the month of February; Rev. John A. Morgan, S. J., will deliver the lectures on the Sunday nights of March and Rev. R. Rush Rankin, S. J., Chancellor of Georgetown University, on the Sunday nights of April. Father Morgan will give the last lecture of the series on May 12.
